Technology-Driven Tools to Lower Costs and Improve Plan Oversight: RxLogic Solutions for Self-Insured Stakeholders

The next era of PBMs is evolving—it will be configurable, data-open and accountable to employers. Self-insured plans now have real alternatives: unbundle where it helps, keep what works and add consumer-friendly tools that drive lowest-net cost at the point of sale. The mandate is simple: more choice, more transparency and measurable outcomes for your people.

With RxLogic, you control the model—network, pricing, clinical rules and member experience—on a modern platform built to prove results, not obscure them.

What this unlocks

- Clarity: NDC-level visibility across claims, rebates and contracts—no delays or blind spots.
- Control: Real-time adjudication and rules you can tune to your workforce and budget.
- Cost: Lowest-net strategies at the counter, not just on paper.
- Choice: Configure partners (network, discount/transparency programs, copay support).

Why this matters now:

GLP-1 adoption, complex oncology regimens and shrinking/variable rebates are pushing pharmacy costs higher. Plan design alone can't counter these forces—employers need a more configurable, transparent PBM model with real-time control and verifiable outcomes.

RxLogic gives self-insured employers the tools to take full control of their pharmacy benefit strategy. Our SaaS-based platform offers real-time claims adjudication, rebate tracking, benefit plan customization and integrated financial and clinical tools – all in one modular, cloud-based system.
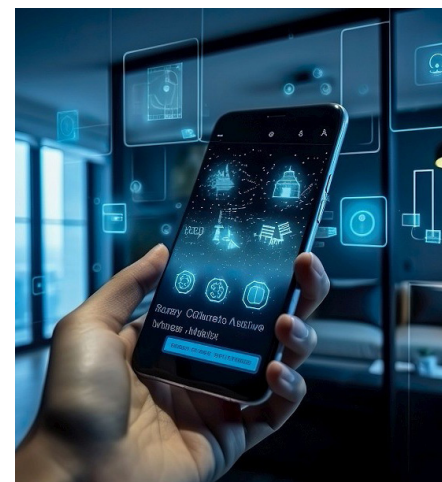

With RxLogic, PBMs can:

- Provide employees with branded portals to access benefits and pricing tools

Our technology addresses the visibility gaps and operational limits of earlier PBM models, giving employers new ways to align benefits with cost, care and workforce goals.

Moving Beyond the Limits of Traditional Models

PBMs were originally designed in an earlier era, when delayed reporting and limited visibility were common across the industry. Those models helped employers manage costs at the time, but today's pressures demand more agility and transparency. RxLogic extends what's possible. By giving employers end-to-end access to integrated specialty pharmacy programs and partners, financial and contractual data, we enable real-time proactive decisions, promote accountability and align pharmacy benefits more closely with workforce and cost goals. The result: measurable savings and better member outcomes, delivered with transparency and control.
